

Please do not change the law to allow telemarketers more access to customers than what the Wisconsin law currently allows. My home is a place of peace and refuge to me and I do not want it invaded by incessant calls from marketers. If I want a product, I prefer to find it without listening to a tirade of information I do not want or need. The current Wisconsin "no-call" law has made evening and meal-times enjoyable rather than upsetting and annoying because of constant interruptions from telemarketers. I am very happy with the law we have now.
